BROWN SPEAKS TO PRESS — John Y. Brown, Democratic candidate for governor, and his wife, the former Phyllis George, were in Murray today to speak to members of the media. Brown says the major thrust of his administration is to bring industry to Kentucky.

Brown Brings Greatest Asset, His Wife Phyllis, On Campaign Swing

By DEBBIE N. LEE
Staff Reporter

John Y. Brown Jr. brought what is perhaps his greatest asset in his gubernatorial bid — his television personality wife, Phyllis George — to Murray today during a seven-city campaign swing through west Kentucky.

Brown, the multimillionaire owner of the Boston Celtics professional basketball team who formerly owned the Kentucky Colonels team, said at a press conference at the Holiday Inn that he is running for governor because "I think I can do things for Kentucky that no other candidate can do."

With his wife of 17 days seated by his side, Brown said that he had reached a point in his life where he has the "time, energy and commitment to go into this." He said his greatest satisfaction would come from representing the interests of all citizens of the state.

"I will be an independent governor who will act and react on the part of all citizens," Brown said.

The former owner of the Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise, who announced his candidacy last Tuesday, said he didn't feel his late entry into the race would be any hindrance to him.

He also discounted any opposition he would receive from other Democratic candidates in the primary and stated, "I am the only candidate who can unite the Democratic Party and beat Louie Nunn." Nunn, a former governor, is a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial bid.

Brown, who financed the national Democratic Telethon several years ago, stressed that running a government is no different from running a business. "State government in Kentucky is a business, a $7½ billion business, and I will manage it as such."

"I will bring efficiency and cost-cutting to government," he stated.

"Governors in the past have sat in Frankfort and played Santa Claus," Brown said, referring to the practice of paying off campaign obligations by political appointments.

"The politicians have run this state for 187 years, and we are always one of the lowest states in terms in per capita income and salaries paid to teachers."

The major thrust of his administration, Brown said, would be to attract industry to the state. Listing

Boy Lost In LBL Found Unharmed

CANTON, Ky. (AP) — A 10-year-old West Memphis, Ark., boy, missing 15 hours in the Land-Between-The-Lakes, was found unharmed Monday after he was spotted by an Army helicopter pilot.

Officials said Jay Simpson was cold, wet and hungry when he was discovered about five miles from the spot where his family had been camping in the Sugar Bay area.

After an overnight search, helicopters were brought in from Fort Campbell early Monday and the rescue occurred a short time later.

Two More File For City Council

Another incumbent and a newcomer have added their names to the list of those filing for the Murray Common Council in the May 29 Primary election, according to County Clerk Marvin Harris.

Ruby Hale, an incumbent who is serving her first full term, and William Bailey, a newcomer to the race, are the most recent candidates to file.

Others who have filed to date include incumbent Steve Yarbrough in the Republican primary. Incumbents Billy Balentine, W.R. Furches and Billy Nix, former councilman Loyd Arnold and newcomers Harry Russell and Steve Sammons have filed in the Democratic primary.

Council members are elected for two-year terms and all 12 positions are open for election. Filing deadline is Wednesday, April 4.

Group Opposing Tax Slates Meet

A group of local citizens has scheduled a meeting for Monday, April 9, to plot strategy in a campaign to oppose the recent five cent property tax approved by the Calloway County School Board.

Charles Windsor, a resident of Lynn Grove and one of the leaders of the group, said the meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the courtroom of the Calloway County Courthouse.

"Those opposed to the tax increase voted by the county school board are urged to attend this meeting," Windsor said.

Formal Inspection Of JROTC Cadets At Calloway Scheduled

The Annual Formal Inspection to grade the progress and abilities of student cadets in the Calloway County High School Junior ROTC program is to be held at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday in Roy Stewart Stadium, according to Major Freeman Dallas, JROTC instructor.

The 117-member unit, in its first year of existence, will be out to achieve the "Honor Unit With Distinction" rating for the inspection, the highest in the competition. Grading the squad will be Lt. Col. George Leimbauch, professor of military science at Ohio University, Athens.

The groundwork for the JROTC program, the first in west Kentucky, was started two years ago by Dr. Jack Rose, Calloway County Schools superintendent, and Ron McAllister, then principal of CCHS, Dallas said.

Dallas said he began recruiting for the program almost immediately.

According to the JROTC program of instruction, desired learning outcomes for the program include ethical values and principles that underline good citizenship, responsibility and respect for constituted authority; development of leadership potential with attendant abilities to live and work cooperatively with others; knowledge of educational and vocational opportunities given by the Army and development of the basic skills necessary to function effectively; familiarity with history, purpose and structure of the military service, importance of physical fitness in maintaining good health and the ability to think logically and communicate effectively both orally and written.

Dallas said that he stresses self-actualization and leadership in his teaching, which isn't entirely in the classroom.

"The program offers something in high school for those who can't find anything else to be involved in. We do the best to teach them to be leaders and to know a little bit more about themselves," Dallas said.

"I try to stay away from lectures and use drills and hands-on experience," Dallas added.

He emphasized that each student has the opportunity to be a squad leader.

Between Dallas, who retired from active duty 2½ years ago, and Sgt. Howard Willson, the other JROTC instructor who retired one month ago, there is 45 years of military experience. Dallas said two-thirds of that time was spent teaching.

A run-down of the courses offered by the program include 13 hours of introduction to the Army, 13 hours of hygiene and first aid, 16 hours of introduction to map reading, 31 hours of weapons and marksmanship, 53 hours of leadership, 7 hours of instruction and 45 hours of commander's time, Dallas said.

Instructors for JROTC programs are badly needed, Dallas added. Qualifications for a good instructor include being retired less than five years and still active in a reserve unit, having a high enough efficiency rating to be accepted for the job, desiring to work long hours and work with kids and wanting to represent the military and teachers.

The JROTC does not necessarily prepare students for military life, but for life itself. "We aren't teaching these students to be soldiers but to be citizens," Dallas said.

The real difference from college ROTC is that college teaches tactics, Dallas added.

New courses including expansion of the Red Cross first aid program and CPR techniques, color guard, drum and bugle corp and a pistol team are tentative for the fall, Dallas said. Weekend activities such as field trips, survival missions and rappelling will also be offered, he added.

The program is available to male and female students in each grade. Currently there are 13 girls in the program. The breakdown by grades is nine seniors, eight juniors, 36

Teamsters' Strike Having Only 'Limited Impact,' Officials Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest automaker furloughed 2,000 additional workers and placed another 3,400 on short shifts today, but the Labor Department said a partial shutdown of the trucking industry is having only "limited impact" on the nation's economy.

"A situation like this may build and have wider impact," said a department official who asked not to be identified by name. "But at its present it is having a limited impact."

With the shutdown in its second day, General Motors Corp. announced it was placing 2,000 workers at its Warren, Ohio, plant on furlough and giving 3,400 workers at its Lordstown, Ohio, plant short work shifts because of parts shortages.

That left about 17,400 GM employees either laid off or on shortened shifts because of an industry-wide strike of Teamsters.

Ford Motor Co., the nation's second-largest automaker, announced no new layoffs or shortened shifts. The company, which reported Monday that 58,000 workers had been given short shifts, said today the figure was actually 51,000.

Both firms said parts shortages caused by the work stoppage were responsible for their actions.

The Carter administration had no official comment on the labor dispute, although one source indicated that President Carter had no "imminent" plans to seek a back-to-work order under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The Labor Department said shipments of perishable foods, milk, fuels and other essential consumer goods were moving normally and that thus far the government had received few complaints from shippers about transportation problems.

The government's assessment agreed with an assessment offered Monday by union President Frank Fitzsimmons, who said shipments of food, heating oil, gasoline, chemicals, milk and bread products and medical supplies would not be affected by the lockout.

The union leader said the impact would be felt in shipments of "general freight ... straw hats, glasses, shoes, auto parts, alligator coats."

An industry analyst said, "I don't think you'd see anything in the first few days that would hurt very much."

SOFT LANDING — This auto driven by Ricky D. Nance, 21, Rt. 8, Murray, stuck nose-down in mud after going down a 25-foot embankment along Ky. 121 S. Monday night. Nance, who was treated and released at Murray-Calloway County Hospital, lost control of the vehicle prior to the accident according to Kentucky State Trooper Joe Oakley. Mercy ambulance crews worked for several minutes, with the assistance of bystanders, before Nance was brought up the steep embankment to a waiting ambulance. Calloway County Deputy David Balentine was also on the scene. The accident occurred at 9:25 p.m. 6.2 miles south of Murray.

A Battered Wife Finds a New Life

DEAR ABBY: I just left a shelter for abused women and I'm starting a new job and a new life.

Abby, please tell women who are being abused by their men that there is help, but they can't do it alone.

Get to a shelter where you're safe! Take your children with you. Don't call him. He'll only put out his hooks to get you to come back. You'll hear his same promises to get counseling or go to A.A., which will promptly be forgotten once you're home and under his control again. He didn't get that way overnight, and he won't change overnight either. Or in a week. Or a month.

Don't let your children grow up thinking this is a normal way of life. Children of abusers become abusers themselves. Don't believe that a bad father is better than no father at all. The end of battering is death, either of the body or of the soul. There's help out there. Get it before it's too late!

I spend more than an hour each morning driving my child to a day care center and then driving to work. I'm up before 6 a.m. and drop into bed exhausted every night. But it's worth it. I'm now free of abuse and beginning to enjoy life again. Women, memorize the phone number of the shelter for abused women!

FREE AT LAST IN ANCHORAGE, ALASKA

DEAR FREE: Unfortunately, there is not a shelter for abused women in every community—but I hope one day there will be.

DEAR ABBY: You missed the boat when MIDGE asked if she should tell her cigar-smoking, pot-bellied suitor she'd marry him if he quit smoking and got rid of his pot. You said, "Take him as he is, or not at all."

When a man is courting a woman, he will do anything to win her. Any suggestions she makes to him during the courtship will be considered "suggestions for improvement." After they're married, it's called "nagging."

Please reconsider.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

DEAR ONE: True. Some men will do anything to win a woman, but after he's won her, he reverts to his old ways. Somehow I can't see a cigar-smoking man who loves to eat give up such notoriously addictive habits permanently.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I hear some nunny say "congratulations" to a girl who has become engaged or married I want to scream.

Don't they know that it is not proper to congratulate the girl? They're supposed to congratulate the MAN, and wish the girl luck.

Please put this in your column, Abby. I'm sure a lot of people could use the information.

A FRIEND IN ALAMOGORDO, N.M.

DEAR FRIEND: True, one congratulates the man and wishes the girl luck. But in many instances, it's the GIRL who deserves the congratulations and the MAN who needs the luck.

Down the Garden Path

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

I think we will all be glad to see March pass into gone-by days. After such a delightful week of sunshine and warmth, it was disheartening to see the snowflakes flying and feel the icy wind. The cold snap took its toll. The early blooming magnolias, such as the Soulanges and Star, were killed. This morning the beautiful blossoms hang limp and by tomorrow will be turning dark. But these two trees are well worth having, for if they escape the late frost, they are truly a lovely sight. Last year both trees were absolutely the most beautiful things imaginable. But I will have to repeat that

Hazel Alumni Plan Dinner For April 14

A planning meeting was held recently at the home of Robert and Rachel Hendon, Waldrop Drive, Murray, in preparation for the Hazel Alumni dinner held each year on the Saturday night before Easter.

Attending the meeting were the officers, Robert Hendon, president; Caulfield Vance, vice president; Myrtle White, treasurer; and Griselda Adams, secretary.

It was decided to have the annual event at the Hazel Community Center with Dr. Will Frank Stealy, a 1943 graduate of Hazel High School as speaker. Dr. Stealy is now professor of history at Northern Kentucky State University.

The Hazel Woman's Club will serve a buffet style dinner followed by musical entertainment arranged by Oneida White.

The decision was made to make calls locally and send out letters to out of town alumni only due to the rising costs of postage. It would be very helpful if those planning to attend would call your reservations in to one of the four officers. Reservations should be in by April 11 in order that the Woman's Club will know how many they are preparing for.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Hendon served coffee and cake much to the delight of each one present.

Pants...Designer and Jr. Sportswear Company are going with three basic pant silhouettes for Spring and Summer:

Pleated trousers with about 18" at the leg.

Pegged pants with narrow bottom sometimes slit at ankles. Plain smooth-front pants with novelty belt.

The pant leg will range from 14" to 18".

DETAILS: pleats, slits, narrow legs, belts.

UP-DATERS: Narrow last year's pant legs, add novelty belts.

Shorts and Others...For the leg watchers, there will be play shorts - short or Bermuda, little short skirts, bloomers, rompers in terris, cottons, knits, hardy wovens and linens in pastel, earth tones, and white. Look for the old "pedal pusher" length to DETAILS: slits, pleats, cuffs.

UP-DATERS: If you have good looking legs, add a pair of short shorts with slits. ACCESSORIES...Color is the important news in accessories. You will find bright red, yellow, blue, or turquoise to spark your Spring silhouette. Be picky in your selections to really make them count!

Jewelry...Bright colors in costume jewelry is a seasonal response to brights or neutral white in ready-to-wear. Colored stones are a way of up-dating the tailored look. Surveys show that most consumers still want real gold jewelry. For these, available will be gold jewelry and gold filled jewelry with emeralds, rubies, and sapphires at a higher price points and amethyst, garnet, topaz, and aquamarine at lower prices. Ankle bracelets still good. Bright colored bangles still strong.

Belts...This season's indispensable item! Available in leather, fabric, metal from a 7.5-10 cm look to a neat 2.5-3 cm to at traditional 1.9 cm belt (Includes macrame.)

Gloves...Lacy, cotton crocheted showing up in bright colors.

Handbags...Most important look is the clutch in vinyl and fabrics but mostly in leather. Shoulder bags still popular in same materials.

Scarves...Shorter oblongs and small squares in the new bright color palette are the attention getters.

Hats...Spring mini-hats bring a touch of whimsy to the head. Small brimmed hats and pillboxes show up in straw, satin and other fabrics. Decorations include feathers, flowers or some type of veiling. The hat is to be worn perched slightly to one side.

HEALTH

Early graying is inherited

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you please explain how hair turns gray and is there anything a person can do to avoid this or slow it down? I am only 27 and find I have quite a few gray hairs now. I love my natural hair color and would like to avoid dyeing it but hate the gray hairs. Could certain vitamins help this problem?

DEAR READER — There are two factors which contribute to gray hair. The first is just plain loss of pigment. Your hair color is dependent upon pigment that's formed from pigment cells just as the color of your skin is. The amount of pigment determines whether you have black hair, blond hair or red hair.

People tend to lose pigment as they get older, both from the skin and from the hair. Of course, there is a great individual variation in this. As you probably know, some people, when they get older, develop little brown spots or freckling and loss of pigment in other areas of the skin. This represents a change in the function of the pigment cells which is to be expected in some people.

The same thing happens to hair, so at the graying stage you can have a variety of colors. Some hair may look darker than it did before and other is completely without pigment. There are all gradations in between. The other factor that contributes to gray hair is air accumulating in the hair shaft. Whenever this happens, graying will result. You see the same thing in cells from the skin. The white flakes from dandruff appear white because the scales coming off the scalp contain air.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-6, Hair Care, to give you more information about your hair, why it turns gray, about dandruff and general problems that people have with their hair. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I wish I could tell you that there was something you could take which would keep you from being gray, but there isn't. There's no way to improve nutrition that will help. It's true that in some animals with different metabolic systems than we have certain vitamin deficiencies may cause gray hair. That doesn't apply to humans. Early graying is usually an inherited characteristic.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will a woman enjoy sex after having a hysterectomy with her sex organs being removed?

DEAR READER — It may depend on with whom she is having sex. That's not a totally facetious answer. Whether you enjoy sex or not has to do with your emotional and mental attitude. Some women do not enjoy sex after a hysterectomy and sometimes they did not enjoy it before a hysterectomy either.

You see a comparable thing in men. Some men don't enjoy sex, or avoid it, after a completely satisfactory recovery from a heart attack. So there is no specific answer but I can tell you that anatomically and as far as sensory nerves are concerned, there is no reason why you cannot continue to enjoy a full and satisfying sex relationship.

Mrs. Bessie Dunn Hostess For New Concord Meeting

Mrs. Bessie Dunn opened her home for the meeting of the New Concord Homemakers Club held on Wednesday, March 14, at 1 p.m. with the president, Mrs. Charlie Stubblefield, presiding.

The major lesson on "Color In Your Home" was presented by Mrs. Timothy Graves. The minor lesson on "The Look of Spring" was given by Mrs. Curtice Cook.

Mrs. Stubblefield read notes on growing daffodils and also gave her report on the Calloway Council meeting. The secretary's report was by Mrs. Effie Edwards.

The 23rd Psalm was repeated in unison, and the thought for the month was read by Mrs. Rainey Lovins, who also directed the recreational period.

Mrs. Dunn was assisted by Mrs. Bertha Emerson in serving refreshments buffet style to ten members and three visitors—Mrs. Emerson, Mrs. Ruby White, and Mrs. Eulalia Lake.

The next meeting will be a potluck luncheon in the home of Mrs. Rainey Lovins on Wednesday, April 11, at 11 a.m.

MARINATED VEGETABLES

An Italian-style hors d'oeuvre that we find is always a big success.

1/2 cup water
1/4 cup olive oil
1-3rd cup cider vinegar
1 medium onion, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups thinly sliced pared carrots

3 medium or large green peppers, seeded and cut into 1-inch squares
1 pound mushrooms (whole if small, halved if medium, quartered if large)

5-ounce jar roasted sweet red peppers, drained and cut in strips

In a large saucepan bring to a gentle boil the water, oil, vinegar, onion, garlic, salt, pepper, carrots and green peppers; cover and simmer for 5 minutes; add the mushrooms and basil and simmer, covered, for 3 minutes. Cool. Stir in the red peppers. Chill to allow flavors to blend, but bring to 100 m. temperature before serving on small plates with cocktail forks. Makes 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 quarts.

After Harrisburg

Nuclear power occupies a unique position in this country's public thought. That's a major problem in coming to grips politically and in terms of national policy with what's happening at Three Mile Island, Pa.

The threat of disaster has become an increasingly common fact of American life. Government at all levels is being urged constantly to deal with such potential or real dangers as the transportation of toxic chemicals, poisonous emissions from industry, the development of new chemicals whose properties aren't fully known and the burial of waste materials.

Nuclear power, however, is a much greater mystery. It's intangible. It can't be felt or touched or seen. Few persons in the world are qualified to debate the technical questions that are raised by the accident at Three Mile Island. The public is left with a great unease that can quickly be turned into panic.

Right now, confusing and contradictory statements are adding to that unease. Even Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh asked Washington to send nuclear experts to Harrisburg because he wasn't getting enough information to make emergency decisions.

What the impact of the accident will be on national energy policies probably will depend on how much damage finally is done. But it seems fairly clear that public fears at the very least will slow down the construction of nuclear power plants. Some members of Congress who previously indicated they would support a shorter licensing period now say they won't push such legislation. President Carter predicted a more cautious approach and greater emphasis on safety measures, which might mean even longer periods than the 10 to 12 years it's been taking to get plants approved.

In short, the nation's reliance on nuclear energy to help make it independent of foreign oil may be scrapped. That would be a mistake.

Other sources of energy, including solar power and oil from coal, won't be able to take the place of nuclear power in meeting the nation's energy needs for many years. Given what we know and don't know about nuclear energy, how much of a sacrifice are the American people able or willing to make to de-emphasize nuclear power? How much de-emphasis can the economy stand without chaos?

The implications are especially important to the Mid-South because the Tennessee Valley Authority has committed itself to nuclear power over the next several decades. To stop its nuclear program would be to stop much of the economic development in the whole TVA region.

The United States has had a nuclear energy program for more than 20 years without any major accident that threatened human life. The Harrisburg plant had been in operation about three months. The experts may study and argue about what went wrong for months, or longer. How much was attributable to human error, or to poor construction, or to poor design? But it's safe to assume that, in the end, the experts will have a much better idea about how to prevent such accidents from recurring.

Americans should be relieved on one point, at least. Nothing has occurred in connection with the accident to substantiate the claims by some nuclear-power critics that government and industry officials and even the news media have conspired to keep from the public provable information about the dangers of nuclear plants.

The accident at Three Mile Island was a shock — and a warning. It can't and won't be ignored. But neither should it lead to a panic-driven retreat from nuclear power. European countries, which have proceeded faster with nuclear plants than the United States has, aren't likely to stop because of one breakdown. Energy is the life's blood of the American economy. To put a tourniquet on that supply would be far more dangerous than trying to learn from the Harrisburg experience how to make the supply more reliable.

The Story Of

Calloway County

1822-1976 By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings

Downtown Murray at the turn of the century was a topsy-turvy assortment of business, office, and religious structures. The court yard was surrounded with an elaborate iron fence (dismantled at the time of the building of the new court house) with huge iron gates on each side of the square. It was purchased by Dr. Will H. Mason Jr., J. H. Churchill and the First Baptist Church in a public auction.

The interval between the burning of the old court house, and the construction of the present court house, court sessions were conducted in a double-front building on the south side of the square. Business structures occupied the north side of the square, extending east down Main Street past 3rd Street with two business houses beyond 3rd, one of which survives today, A. B. Beale & Son; the other being a small clothing mercantile house conducted by the first known Jewish resident who later sold the enterprise to Dick Beale.

Most of the buildings on the north side of the square provided both business and professional offices as did the buildings on the north side of Main Street extending to North 3rd, particularly the large Gatlin Building at the northeast corner of North 4th Street. The first floor half of the building adjoining North 4th was used for a generation as a hardware store, owned and operated by Jess and Bert Sexton, who also used the entire basement section for assembly and sales room for wagons, buggies and farm implements. The second half of the main floor was the site of a prominent harness shop operated by Frank Pool. Before Pool had the shop, the Bank of Murray had its headquarters there.

A lively stable, an essential to the business life of the town, was conveniently located at the southeast corner of Maple and South 5th Street with C. A. Bishop one of the later owners. Leo Fields lively stable also was conveniently located on South 4th Street facing the First Baptist Church. The old First Methodist Church also had the unique distinction of facing the Bishop Lively Stable. Not only did the churches have the pleasure of proximity to lively stables but they also claimed nearby locations of poultry houses with Judson Pittman's poultry and egg house on South 4th Street near the Baptist Church, and Holcomb's Produce House north across Maple Street from the Methodist Church. The odors of the poultry houses prevailed despite the mellowing lay aromatics of the lively stables. Between the two poultry houses nestled another Holcomb family poultry house on the south side of the square.

You Win Some And Lose Some In This Business Of Words

My slip is showing! In my column of last Thursday dealing with Mrs. Maxine Crouch Bell's article about Mrs. Modelle Outland and her years in Mrs. Outland's classroom, I incorrectly gave the name of the magazine in which the article appeared. Betty Gore called this to my attention the following morning.

I referred to the magazine as "Early Times." Actually, the name of the magazine, published by Allen A. Raymond, Inc., Darien, Conn., is "Early YEARS." It is a magazine for teachers of preschool through third grade.

"Early Times," Betty tells me, is a brand of whiskey!

I don't know what I was thinking about when I wrote it as "Early Times" instead of "Early YEARS," and I apologize to Mrs. Bell as well as the magazine's publishers, who were so nice in permitting me to reproduce the article, for the slipup.

I'm sure the head-shrinkers and Freudian advocates would explain it with some psychoanalytic theory that a sub-conscious desire in my mind for a shot of whiskey caused my fingers to tap that out on the typewriter, but nothing could be further from the truth.

You win some and lose some in this word business. Stan Musial became one of baseball's immortals and all-time great hitters by getting one hit every three times at bat during his long and colorful career. I try to think of that every time something like this happens.

Too, my good daddy used to say, "If you never make a mistake, you aren't doing much of anything."

When I was a small boy, my favorite candy — and still is for that matter — was the Hershey bar. I thought the next thing to Heaven would be to work some day in the Hershey plant at Hershey, Pa.

Beverly Parker has come as close to realizing a dream like that as anyone I have run across in a long time.

Beverly is the daughter of James and Charlotte Parker and is one of the better lady golfers in these parts. She has just graduated — in December — from the University of Alabama with a degree in retailing. While there, too, she played 3 1/2 years and traveled all over the country as a member of the girls' golf team.

Now she's ready to go out and tackle the world, and guess what she's going to do!

Only yesterday, she went to work in the pro shop at the Horseshoe Bend Country Club, one of Atlanta's most prestigious layouts just northeast of the city. The pro is a fellow by the name of Dale Miller.

When she has some spare time, she'll be able to enjoy all she wants of her "Hershey bar" — golf — and we all wish her well.

She has promised to play a round — a round of golf, that is — with me when she comes back in June for brother David's marriage to pretty Martha McKinney. It's a joy to watch Beverly play.

Now that the snow has melted, the trees are budding and the birds singing again, we have been looking through bushes, under rocks and all over for Joe Tom Erwin, our retired sports information director at Murray State.

Joe is completing his first year in retirement, and when he retired, he RETIRED! We haven't seen him since he tossed his pencil on the desk, got up out of his old chair with only the three casters on it and waved goodbye.

Much like the case of the legendary "Big Foot" in the north woods, we simply run into someone every now and then who claims to have seen him somewhere. One such person was Bob Head.

Bob is the art department chairman at Murray State and a close friend of Joe's as well as a devoted nature lover himself. Bob tells me Joe is back at his home on Kentucky Lake near Pine Bluff Shores and is hard at work — if you can believe that — cutting a three-mile nature trail out of the woods near his place.

He has named it the "J-J-R Nature Trail," and not just anybody is going to get to use it. Bob says the initials stand for "Jo Crass, Jane Wells and Russ Dawson," three of Joe's closest friends.

"Anyone who comes out and helps him," Bob laughed, "not only gets to use the trail but gets a bend in the thing, a tree or something named after him or her. There's even a 'Chad Stewart Bridge,' but Joe says that name is sort of like a traffic light — on and off, depending on whether or not he is mad at Chad at the moment."

What Is A Fair Profit?

NEW YORK (AP) — As senators debate whether the Council on Wage and Price Stability should live or die, their constituents ponder over an issue the council never managed to clarify: What is a fair profit?

The question has been the grist of countless discussions in colleges, churches, union halls and boardrooms too, but often on a philosophical level. The Council sought to make it practical definition.

Whether it satisfied itself on that score is one matter, but in communicating the message it seems to have failed. Workers, managers and government officials continue to use their own interpretations.

The Council's formula called for companies to hold price increases in 1979 to one-half percentage point less than their average annual rate of increases during 1976-1977, unless their costs rose uncontrollably.

Right there the troubles began. While the administration declared that business had given overwhelming approval, its proclamation might have been overly enthusiastic. Many businesses withheld their overt support.

The AFL-CIO went to court, challenging the administration's right to deny contracts to businesses that failed to comply. And the Teamsters, in contract negotiations, seemed to pay no mind at all.

But the real confusion developed when the administration sought to apply its theoretical formula to the practical situation and found it didn't always fit. A fair profit couldn't be so simply described.

That became evident when the White House itself ignored the guidelines and fell back on subjective terms that had always clouded rather than clarified the issue. Outraged, it blasted fourth quarter profits.

Alfred Kahn, council chairman, called the increases a catastrophe. Hamilton Jordan called them excessive. Since many of the increases were well within guidelines, their outbursts further muddled matters.

As matters stand, nobody seems to know what a fair profit is. A dozen different ways to report them have been discovered. There is no agreement on which to use. There is no agreement that profits are up.

Without agreement, the guidelines inevitably are undermined. And for the Council to go further, to say what companies can and cannot earn, is to turn the private sector over to government dictate.

Perhaps the most glaring misunderstanding about the seasonally adjusted 9.5 percent increase in fourth-quarter profits (over the fourth quarter of 1977) was in failing to observe the reasons why.

As business points out, much of the profits resulted not from price increases but from more effective production; increased productivity is considered the most anti-inflationary tool available to the economy.

University of Vermont professor George Albee said he received an invitation in the mail to submit biographical material for the book's listing of accomplished Americans.

Albee filled out the forms for his family's dog, Otis.

A few weeks later, an envelope came back addressed to "Otis P. Albee," with a paste-up of the pooch's biography as it appears in the latest edition, Albee said.

Otis was identified as a "retired explorer, hunter and sportsman." His Ph.D. in animal husbandry was duly noted, as well as his status as "former leader and guide of hunting parties." (Free Press)

Green Signs Letter With MSU

Glen Green, a second-team all-state selection from Henderson County High School, has signed an Ohio Valley Conference basketball letter-of-intent with Murray State, the Racers sports information office announced today.

A 6-6 swingman, Green averaged 21 points, 15 rebounds, four blocked shots and five assists a game for Henderson County, which lost to eventual state-runnerup Christian County in the finals of the Second Region Tournament.

Henderson County Coach Bob Mulcahy, former head coach at Eastern Kentucky University, rates Green in lofty terms. "He's right up there with the better players I've coached," said Mulcahy. "And he's the best offensive rebounder I've seen since Cliff Hagan."

Mulcahy coached now-NBA great Wes Unseld in high school.

Possibly Green's best game this season came against Apollo High School, when he scored 32 points and grabbed 21 rebounds.

"The togetherness of the whole basketball program here made me feel like I was at home," Green said during a visit to the MSU campus last weekend. "I was impressed with the positive attitude of the coaching staff and that I would be treated like an individual."

Green listed Southern Illinois at Carbondale, Mercer, Ole Miss and Oklahoma as other schools that had expressed interest in him.

"He's a blue-chip prospect," said Murray State Coach Ron Greene. "His potential has not yet been scratched, and he has good speed outside shooting and ball handling skills. We plan to use him as a swingman."

Green becomes the second recruit to sign a letter-of-intent with the Racers. LaMont Sleet of Eminence High School was the first. The national letter signing date is April 11.

Spring Tests

Workouts Begin Today For Racer Gridders; Gottfried Says Atmosphere To Be 'Relaxed'

By TONY WILSON

Sports Editor

Mike Gottfried hopes the force will be without — rather than with — his team as Murray State begins spring football drills today.

"I hope our program is progressing like a shoe, fitting a little better as time goes by," says Gottfried, who enters his second second as Murray State coach after a 4-7 mark in 1978. "Last year at this time, we had to force enthusiasm on our kids. Now it's becoming automatic with them."

The Racers were originally scheduled to begin their 20-day period of workouts Monday, but heavy rains forced the one-day postponement.

Gottfried admits the biggest question mark on an individual basis is the quarterback spot. He will seek to find a replacement for Mike Dickens, the 6-3 senior who finished third in both passing and total offense among Ohio Valley Conference rivals last season.

"It should be a big rival there," admits Gottfried.

One position that is secure, to say the least, is the tailback slot, where tailback Danny Lee Johnson, just a sophomore, returns.

The 6-foot, 195-pound Johnson rushed for 1,217 yards last season, a performance that earned him OVC offensive player-of-the-year honors.

Though Gottfried feels his offense is loaded with potential, he still points to some positions that will merit a close watch. "Someone has to emerge at the fullback spot. And we've got to find a wide receiver to go with Greg King to really be a threat," he said.

As a freshman last season, King caught 33 passes for 498 yards, second on the team to only rugged senior tight end David Thomas, who grabbed 35.

Last season, the offensive unit finished third in the league in total offense, averaging 346.9 yards a game. Defensively, though, the Racers ranked only sixth, allowing 341.2 yards a game. The defensive unit has undergone a facelift, of sorts, when compared to last spring, Gottfried says. "Our biggest concern a year ago was our offensive line and our defensive secondary," he said.

Now, though, Gottfried points to those two spots as probable strengths, but with some qualifiers. "We have the personnel in the offensive line, but we need to get the people in the right spots," he says. The coaches will watch the progress of the defensive tackles and the linebackers, areas which were hit hard by graduation. Gone are all-OVCer Bruce Martin, David Reagan and Bill Shannon.

But the biggest difference from a year ago, Gottfried feels, will be the overall atmosphere of the camp. "We should be a little more relaxed this spring. The players know what to expect now."

Baseball Biggies Decide On Stand Against Umps

By HAL BOCK

AP Sports Writer

Baseball's bigwigs have drawn the economic line at last, and the poor souls who happened to wind up on the wrong side of it are the umpires.

Tired of paying large-sized player salaries, the result of contracts that they inflicted upon themselves with some old-fashioned, hard-headed, rather dumb bargaining, baseball has decided to take a stand. Oh, not against the players. No, no. The players wouldn't stand still for that. No patsies there. The target the bosses chose were the umpires, who have dared, at last, to ask for their share of the pie.

It's fine with the men who run the sport that there are benchwarmers with $100,000 contracts earning more than twice the salary of the highest paid umpire. Benchwarmers are, after all, players and in The New Baseball, you just don't mess with the players. Fooling with them is like tugging on Superman's cape. It is ill-advised and it gets you nothing but trouble. Umpires, on the other hand, are another story.

The umpires are easy targets, available and vulnerable. Because of some poor advice, they are in the middle of a five-year collective bargaining agreement which includes such goodies as "job security," a tidbit the bosses tossed their way in the last negotiations.

Do you know what their job security clause reads? It says that after the league president fires an ump, the ump can appeal his dismissal to the league's highest authority — the same president who just handed him the pink slip.

What could be fairer than that?

Now any union that could agree to a clause like that in a contract doesn't exactly sound like a negotiating heavyweight. Here, it seemed, was a place where the leagues could demonstrate some muscle.

Umpires can be found someplace above ground-keepers in baseball's feudal society. They are the serfs of the game, working or traveling non-stop, day after day for the six-month season. Families are forgotten. All that matters is the game.

And their reward for that loyalty is a salary scale that would send a fringe player's agent into a rage. In its eternal benevolence, baseball paid its most highly regarded umpires, the senior men in the two leagues, a top salary of just over $40,000 last year. And they didn't even have to buy tickets to the games, either.

Layfayette's Sutherland Says Sampson The Best

LEXINGTON — Lexington Lafayette Coach Joek Sutherland has seen prep basketball star Ralph Sampson in action and his regard for the youngster is higher than Sampson's 7-foot-3 frame.

"You could put him out there on the court with the Mills Brothers (a singing group) and they'd win the NCAA championship," said Sutherland. "The way he blocks shots, he reminds me of King Kong hanging on the Empire State building, swatting down those airplanes."

Sutherland coached a team of U.S. high school all-stars against a team from the Washington Metro area Thursday night. Sampson, of Harrisonburg, Va., led the Metro AllStars to an 86-85 victory, collecting 23 points, 21 rebounds and blocking four shots.

"He's the most dominating big man I've ever seen play high school basketball," said Sutherland.

Sampson is being wooed by recruiters for several colleges, including the University of Kentucky.

"I'd say Kentucky's chances are very, very good," said Sutherland. "Let's say I feel Sampson's leaning to Kentucky — the blue and white is in the upper part of his mind."

6-8 Bouchie Is Awarded Indiana's Mr. Basketball

By the Associated Press
INDIANAPOLIS — Steve Bouchie, who overcame the shock of losing his mother in a tragic auto accident to lead his Washington High School team to the Semistate finals, was named Mr. Basketball in Indiana for the 1978-79 season Monday.

Bouchie, a 6-foot-8, 215-pounder who plans to play his college basketball at Indiana University, set school scoring records for points in a career and single game. He also holds the school standards for rebounds in a season and career.

The selection means Bouchie, who led the Hatchets to two consecutive runner-up spots in the Evansville Semistate tournament, will wear uniform No. 1 in June when an Indiana All-Star team battles their Kentucky counterparts in a twogame series.

"I think about her a lot," said Bouchie about his mother who was killed coming home from an IU game near the end of the past season.

"The accident just made me work a lot harder," he said Monday. "And it was good that we were still playing basketball. I was anxious to play again so I could stop thinking about the accident. The only thing, now, is I wish my mother was here to share in my recognition."

Bouchie, who led the voting in the recent Associated Press All-State poll, is the first player from southwestern Indiana to win the coveted honor. His selection was announced by the Indianapolis Star, which sponsors the annual Blind Fund rivalry in Indiana.

Indiana's All-Stars (boys and girls) will battle Kentucky's All-Stars, here at Market Square Arena on June 16 and in Louisville at Freedom Hall on June 23. Bill Harrell of state champion Muncie Central will coach the Indiana boys team.

The balance of the Indiana boys team, selected by the game committee with help from sportswriters, sportscasters and varsity coaches, will be announced Wednesday.

Murray, Calloway Open Wednesday

Rain has postponed both the Murray High and Calloway County baseball season openers, but the two teams, weather permitting, will square off against each other Wednesday at the Murray

Calloway County Park at 4 p.m.

The Tigers, defending First Region champions, have 19 games scheduled, while the Lakers have 20 games on tap.

Lieberman, Not Regretful Of Early Days, Honored As The Best Collegian

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK — Nancy Lieberman has never regretted the times she sneaked out of the house and went down to the playground to rough it up with the boys.

"I never played against girls until I got in high school," says the 5-foot-10 All-America pointguard, honored Monday night as the best woman player in college basketball.

"My parents hated it when they found out I was the one jumping up and putting finger marks all over the ceiling. The guys all resented me at first and my girl friends were envious. You have to take a lot of abuse but it was worth it."

Now, Nancy says, boys who used to yell "Tomboy, why don't you play someplace else?" greet her with a friendly, "Hello, Nancy — gee, we caught you on the tube. You're great."

A statuesque redhead, Miss Lieberman is the 1979 winner of the Wade Trophy, symbolizing No. 1 in the women's collegiate sport. A 20-year-old junior, she led the Old Dominion team of Norfolk, Va., to a 35-1 record and the national championship. Her contributions included a 17.4-point scoring average, 254 assists, 144 steals and 276 rebounds.

She was a combination of Larry Bird and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, so talented that Uncle Sam will build his 1980 Olympic team around her and Carol Blazejowski of Montclair State. Carol won the award last year.

Nancy is not discouraged over the slow public acceptance of women's basketball while the female gender is thriving in individual sports, such as tennis and golf.

Chris Evert collected another $100,000 for a weekend of tennis Sunday while Nancy Lopez, on a rival TV screen, missed in a bid for her third straight women's golf crown, losing in a rare five-woman playoff in a $150,000 tournament.

"Each year women's sports have made greater strides," Nancy said. "More doors are being opened to women athletes in every field. They are making more money and generating more excitement."

"Women's basketball is the quickest growing of all team sports. It is 100 times bigger than it was five years ago. At Norfolk, we often play to sellout crowds."

This spectator appeal has not yet spilled over to the incipient pro game in the Women's Basketball League. Salaries in the 10-team league are said to range from $2,800 to $7,500 on some teams. Karen Logan of the New Jersey Gems is the highest paid at a reported $21,000. Salaries in the men's National Basketball Association average more than $125,000 with big name players drawing down $500,000 to $800,000.

Nancy and Carol both are looking to professional careers after the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, but they won't come cheaply.

"Olympic exposure should enhance our value," Lieberman said. "I don't think $21,000 would get either of us."

The first-through fourth-grade girls soccer season will begin late this month, and a signup day for those interested will be Saturday at Cutchin Field. Above, Huang Dinh (kicking) is shown during last season.

Soccer Meeting To Be Thursday; Signup Saturday

An organizational meeting of the Murray Soccer Association will be held Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Triangle Inn.

Persons interested in helping with the organization should attend the meeting.

A signup day for first-through fourth-grade girls interested in playing soccer this spring will be Saturday at 9 a.m. Cutchin Field on the MSU campus.

The girls' league play will begin late in April. For more information, contact Bill Whitaker, president of the soccer association, at 753-0783.

Fairbanks Ransomed Away From Patriots

By the Associated Press
BOSTON (AP) — It took more than three months, but after one of the most bitter and expensive legal wrangles in the history of the National Football League, the University of Colorado has ransomed Chuck Fairbanks from the New England Patriots.

It was a costly settlement reached Monday. The university agreed to pay the Patriots for the services of Fairbanks, who had four years left on his NFL contract at $150,000 a season.

Fairbanks will take over as the Colorado coach in time for spring practice this Saturday, and the Patriots will name a new coach within two weeks.

Fairbanks' general managerial duties likely will be offered to Patriots player personnel director Frank "Bucko" Kilroy.

The settlement was negotiated with the help of two NFL owners, the late Carroll Rosenbloom of the Los Angeles Rams and Bud Adams of the Houston Oilers.

Tragically, Rosenbloom, who initiated settlement talks with Colorado football boosters five weeks ago, drowned a few hours before the settlement was disclosed.

"This period has been one of uncertainty... headaches and heartaches," Patriots owner William H. Sullivan said, referring to the 3½ months of the Fairbanks controversy.

"I'm relieved. I don't want to say that we have won. Let's just say that our position was justified," Sullivan said.

"We have stood up for the sanctity of a contract. If we hadn't, we would have set a pattern for players and coaches."

Both sides refused to divulge the terms of the settlement, which freed Fairbanks to take the job he accepted initially last Dec. 18. However, speculation was that Colorado agreed to absolve the Patriots of several hundred thousand dollars in deferred compensation owed to Fairbanks.

Parker Says He's Best And Proving It

By the Associated Press

Dave Parker calls himself the best player in the National League, and the way he's hitting these days that would be hard to dispute.

Baseball's highest paid player has been the terror of the Grapefruit Circuit with nine home runs, including two Monday to help the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Minnesota Twins 7-6.

Parker, last year's Most Valuable Player in the NL who signed a $900,000-a-year contract in the off-season, belted his most recent homers against Minnesota starter Geoff Zahn in the first and seventh innings.

In addition, the big Pirate outfielder broke a 6-6 tie in the ninth inning when he tagged reliever Mike Marshall with an RBI base hit.

The loss by the Minnesota

"A" squad was the second by a Twins' team Monday. The Minnesota "B" team was beaten 2-0 by the Houston Astros as James Rodney Richard and Gary Williams combined on a four-hitter.

Elsewhere, Phil Niekro allowed three hits in seven innings in his final tuneup for his season-opening start Friday, helping the Atlanta Braves defeat the Kansas City Royals 2-1.

George Hendrick's basesloaded single climaxed a tworun rally in the ninth as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Montreal Expos 2-1. The Cards' rally was triggered by Lou Brock with his second hit of the game.

Jerry Narron hit a one-out homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, leading the New York Yankees to a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Butch Hobson drove in the tie-breaking run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning, lifting the Boston Red Sox to a 7-6 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies. Bill Nahorodny drove in five runs with a pair of homers to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 12-10 decision over the Texas Rangers.

Home runs by Ed Kranepool, Ron Hodges and Elliott Maddox paced a 17-hit attack as the New York Mets routed the Toronto Blue Jays 11-4. Jerry Martin's RBI single in the ninth inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Toby Harrah's ninth-inning sacrifice fly, his third RBI of the game, gave the Cleveland Indians an 8-7 triumph over the Oakland A's. Steve Kemp's three-run homer led the Detroit Tigers over the Cincinnati Reds 5-1.

Don Baylor and Rance Mulliniks drove in two runs each as the California Angels scored an 11-9 decision over the San Diego Padres. San Francisco topped Los Angeles 6-4 as Roger Metzger squeeze bunted the winning run home.

Bullets Showing No Signs Of Stumbling As Season Nears End

By the Associated Press
By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

"We're our own worst enemy," says Dick Motta, coach of the Washington Bullets. "If we stumble and fall, it will be our own fault."

The Washington Bullets, the best team in basketball, are showing no signs of stumbling as the National Basketball Association's regular season lumbers to a close this week.

The Bullets have strength, depth, poise, experience and first-class coaching — more than enough to become the first team in a decade to repeat as champion.

The Bullets also have injuries, something that has been on Motta's mind lately.

"If we can just get our people healthy, we'll be alright," he said. "But right now I'm worried about our hospital report. It's no fun to go through a whole season and not finish the way we started."

The Bullets started by receiving the championship rings they earned in a seven-game series with Seattle last spring. They plan on finishing by nailing down a matching set of rings.

"We have confidence in our ability to beat anybody," forward Bobby Dandridge said. "We're pretty well together as a team, and we'll be even better when we have 11 guys healthy and functioning."

"We're as good as anybody," echoed guard Larry Wright. "It's just a matter of us getting healthy."

Wright and Charlie Johnson have been starting in the backcourt for Washington the past few weeks and the team has kept on winning, attesting to its depth. Kevin Grevey had lingering hamstring problems over the past month and is just now working himself back into game condition, while Tom Henderson is out with strained ligaments in his right knee.

"We'll have a bye through the first round of the playoffs (as champions of the Atlantic Division)," noted Motta, who Sunday became only the third coach in NBA history to register 500 career victories, joining Red Auerbach and Red Holzman in that elite group.

"We're pretty banged up now, but we'll be able to use that week off to get some of our people healthy again."

Completing the Bullets' backcourt is Phil Chenier, the three-time all-star who underwent back surgery on Sept. 1 and is now the club's fifth guard. Roger Phegley, a first-round draft choice, is on the injured list because the Bullets have nowhere else to put him.

"We have nine starters on our team, 10 with Chenier back," said Motta. "Other teams have depth, but no one has the trusted depth that we have. Because of the injuries, our bench grew up. If there's a better bench in the league right now, I don't want to play it."

The Bullets' starters aren't exactly chopped liver.

Wes Unseld, Elvin Hayes and Bobby Dandridge form an experienced, powerful front line that matches up well against any in the league. Mitch Kupchak, who is recovering from a back injury, is the NBA's best frontcourt reserve, and second-year man Greg Ballard looks like a star of the future. Even rookie center Dave Corzine has played well in his few opportunities.

Carroll Rosenbloom, Rams Owner, Drowns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carroll Rosenbloom, the Los Angeles Rams' owner who drowned while vacationing in Florida, was known by his friends and associates as a shrewd businessman, a rebel, and a man "who never left any stone unturned as far as helping people."

Rosenbloom, 72, drowned Monday after he was dragged out to sea by a heavy undertow in Golden Beach, Fla., police said.

One of the National Football League's most visible and controversial team owners during the league's past three decades of remarkable growth in prominence, Rosenbloom owned the Baltimore Colts from 1953 until early in 1972. Then he traded them outright for the Rams in a unique sports deal.

"Carroll Rosenbloom played a major role in the growth and success of the National Football League, both through the performance of the teams he produced and through his active participation in the league's decision-making processes," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who had more than a couple of run-ins with the feisty Rosenbloom.

Rosenbloom and his wife, Georgia, were staying at a rented house in the exclusive Miami-area resort city of Golden Beach. Police Chief William Henrikson said officers were called after Rosenbloom was dragged out to sea by the undertow.

He was the major stockholder in Warner Communications and had oil drilling interests, but Rosenbloom's first love was football. "That other stuff is no fun," he said.

Pony League Signup To Be On Thursday

Pony League registration will be held Wednesday and Thursday from 4-6 p.m. at the pavilion in the Murray-Calloway County Park.

All players, whether returnees from last year or not, should sign up, says league president Jerry Key.

Re-Siding Can Upgrade Home To Classic Or Contemporary Look

BEFORE AFTER

Older homes are soaring in value right along with new homes in today's heated housing market.

The value of that comfortable but drab-looking older home can be increased by upgrading its exterior appearance through re-siding.

Whether you want to increase the resale value of your home, remodel a recently-purchased older house, or simply improve the appearance of your home, Masonite brand hardboard siding materials can convert the aging house to either a traditional or contemporary look.

With the broad range of colors and patterns available today, there's no limit to creativity in renovating an older home. You can revive the character of a classic design or totally change the personality of a home with horizontal lap siding in warm, muted colors for a quaint, clapboard effect; with vertical plank panels reproducing the grain and texture of natural woods in rich, earth tone colors; with panel siding which simulates the skittled surface of real stucco — without the mess.

The typical 1½-story home at upper left, for example, can be converted to a contemporary rustic design with pre-stained Cypress Gray vertical panels contrasting with horizontal Woodsman lap siding stained rich brown to highlight windows. Cypress Side reproduces the wood-grain texture of natural pecky cypress while Woodsman looks and feels like rough-sawn cedar. A re-designed entry shelter with front door accenting the vertical lines, illuminated with a modern globe fixture, completes the contemporary effect.

The standard split-level home below was transformed into a traditional English Tudor style with stucco-like Stuccato panel siding accented with half-timbers over joints for authenticity. A hint of a hip-roof over the left gable, plus diamond-shaped mullions on windows and doors, adds to the 16th-century English decor.

Today's hardboard siding materials are durable and weather-resistant, too. Masonite brand hardboard sidings are corrosion-free and resist denting, splitting, cracking and hail damage for many years.

TIPS ON FINANCING HOME IMPROVEMENTS

What would you buy if you suddenly discovered a forgotten bank account containing several thousand dollars?

Insulation? A new roof? Central air conditioning? A swimming pool?

Or what about remodeling that dated kitchen, or finishing off the basement or attic area to create more living space?

If you're a homeowner, chances are that you do have a hidden savings account with more than enough to cover most any home improvement program you might want to undertake.

That "mystery" account is the increased equity in your home which has been created by a combination of inflation and the strong nationwide demand for housing which has boosted prices to record levels.

And it is just waiting to be tapped.

Home equity loans currently are one of the most popular ways to raise cash for home improvement projects or other expenses, according to GECC Financial Services, the consumer lending arm of the General Electric Company with offices in 30 states.

The lender points out that many homeowners are realizing amounts up to $50,000 by borrowing against their property.

Since most home equity loans are written for 5 to 10 year periods, that means that interest expense will generally be substantially less overall than it would be if an existing low-rate first mortgage with many years left to run were refinanced at the high current rates.

The loan experts at GECC Financial Services say that even if you've only been in your present home a few years, the difference between what you owe and the present value of your property is a sizeable nest egg representing substantial borrowing power.

For more information about home equity loans write to GECC Financial Services, Dept. 3405, 260 Long Ridge Road, Stamford, CT 06902.

Insulated steel entry door by Peachtree Door, Inc., of Norcross, Ga. has a urethane foam core, which provides high thermal resistance and structural strength. The foam core is produced from urethane chemicals provided by Mobay Chemical Corporation. The insulated door has an insulating value of R-14.9; solid wood doors have about 1/5 of that thermal resistance.

Insulated Doors Are Now Home Energy-Savers

Times are changing for front doors.

Insulated steel doors which have about six times the thermal resistance of conventional wood doors are making their mark as an important new energy-saver for the home.

That's the word from Peachtree Door, Inc., of Norcross, Ga., which has two plants making the urethane foam insulated entry and patio doors on a round-the-clock basis: Mobay Chemical Corporation of Pittsburgh, Pa., supplies the chemicals for the polyurethane foam which adds high insulating value and structural strength to the doors.

Traditional doors have been called one of the home's "most serious energy drains."

Air infiltration is the greatest energy loss factor associated with doors, according to Peachtree. The average infiltration loss around a closed, well-fitted and weatherstripped door is about 865 Btus per hour. The loss doubles if there is no weatherstripping and quadruples if the door is poorly fitted.

With an outside temperature of zero and an inside temperature of 72°F, an average of 18,000 Btus are lost for every minute an exterior door is open. At today's energy prices, it costs about six or seven cents every time the front door is opened.

Insulated doors have a thermal resistance value of R-14.85, or 6½ times as great as solid wood doors, and nearly four times as great as entry doors made of wood with storm doors also made of wood.

The insulated doors pioneered by Peachtree also have adjustable thresholds and special Endurseat all-weather weatherstripping which resists freezing temperatures without losing its effectiveness. The foam-reinforced composite steel structure resists warpage, twisting and breakage.

The air infiltration rate of the Peachtree insulated door is 60 per cent lower than a tight-fitting wood door and 20 per cent lower than for a combination tight-fitting wood door and storm door.

Peachtree reports that a six-city study conducted by Prof. William Z. Black of the Georgia Institute of Technology showed that insulated steel doors could cut heat losses by as much as 85 per cent compared to other doors.

In all cases, the calculations were made for doors operating in the average temperatures in each city over a 50-year period.

Some typical findings in the study commissioned by Peachtree: In Minneapolis, the annual heat loss through a urethane insulated steel door was calculated at 624,579 Btus, or 75 per cent below a wood door with a storm door (2,440,295 Btus), and 85 per cent below that of a conventional wood door without a storm door (4,095,600 Btus). Translated into dollars at a cost of 5.03 per kilowatt-hour, the annual cost of the heat loss through a urethane insulated door was calculated at $5.50, compared to $36 for the wood door.

Considerable savings were also calculated for the same doors in Chicago, Indianapolis, Atlanta, Seattle and Orlando.

By closing the "right door," you can stop one "energy drain" and save on heating costs.

For further information on the doors, contact Peachtree Door, Inc., Norcross, GA 30071.

Roof Ventilation — Effective Way To Avoid Energy & Repair Costs

Attic insulation without adequate ventilation is an invitation to significant home problems, according to researchers for Alcoa Building Products, Inc.

Poor ventilation can add to discomfort and air conditioning costs in the summer, and cause structural roof damage and loss of insulation value in the winter, researchers concluded after extensive tests.

I. B. Spangler, Jr., general manager for the Aluminum Company of America subsidiary, explained:

Basic Reasons To Ventilate

There are two basic reasons why the attic in your home must be ventilated — greater comfort for your family and less money spent on heating, cooling and home repairs.

"In an unventilated attic, the summer sun can raise the roof temperature to 160°F or more. Even adequate insulation can't stop some of this heat from being radiated to the ceilings of the rooms below, then down to the rooms and the people in them. An effective attic ventilation system keeps attic temperature within 10 or 15 degrees of the outside temperature, even on the hottest days.

"When attics and ceilings are overheated, the air conditioning system works harder and wastes energy and money. Without air conditioning, your house is just that much hotter. An overheated attic also can cause roof shingles to deteriorate — even to buckle and come loose."

In winter, Mr. Spangler said, moisture from the house works its way through the ceiling insulation and attic.

He added: "When water vapor from cooking, bathing, humidifiers and other sources reaches the cold attic ceiling, it can condense into droplets, soaking the roof sheathing, rafters, and other structural members. It also can dampen insulation, making it less effective. The result can be costly damage to the roof structure, peeling paint on the outside of the house, and higher heating bills because the insulation doesn't stay dry, loose and effective."

A good attic ventilation system, he said, removes the water vapor before it condenses and causes problems for the homeowner.

Another winter problem, Mr. Spangler said, is ice buildup at the eaves. Warm air in the attic melts snow on the roof. The water runs down and re-freezes at the eaves and in the gutters. When the underside of the roof is ventilated, he said, this particular problem is eliminated.

Most Effective Attic Ventilation

Of all the attic ventilating methods, the most effective and efficient is the ridge vent system, Mr. Spangler said. This consists of a continuous vent in the ridge of the house and continuous soffit louvers along both sides.

One such venting assembly, according to Mr. Spangler, is Vent-A-Ridge system invented, patented and produced by Alcoa-owned HC Products Company of Princeton, Ill.

More than 21,000,000 feet of Vent-A-Ridge, a key element in the system, has been installed in homes and other buildings throughout the United States. Its companion installation, Vent-A-Strip, goes under the eaves of the house running parallel with the ridge. Fifty percent of the venting is in the ridge and 50 percent in the soffit.

The Alcoa system provides uniform, continuous ventilation along the underside of the roof and features inverted louvers to block out rain, snow and insects. It comes in colors, blends with the roof line, uses no electrical power, has no moving parts, and works effectively with wind from any direction — or when there is no wind.

When wind passes over the ridge opening, it creates a void or "negative pressure" in the vent area. Air then is drawn from lower portions of the attic and through the soffit openings to fill the void. This action, accompanied by the natural inclination of hot air to rise, causes constant and faster circulation in the attic. Even on calm days, there always is an effective flow of air to reduce attic temperatures.

Tests by HC Products and the University of Illinois, Mr. Spangler said, showed that air moving at 1.5 cubic foot per minute per square foot of attic surface will effectively remove heat buildup in the attic. The "natural" soffit-ridge venting system will do this without use of power driven systems such as fans or turbine generators.

For example, he said, a motorized fan on the roof draws air on a straight line from soffit vents, cooling only a small portion of the under-roof surface. If the fan is in the gable end, little or no air moves across any part of the roof surface. Fans generally are controlled thermostatically and don't operate in the winter to combat moisture condensation. And in the summer, tests show, electricity used to power the fan can equal or exceed the savings in energy needed for air-conditioning.

Mr. Spangler asserted: "The initial cost of Vent-A-Ridge system, whether in new construction or in existing buildings, is the first and last cost. It works continuously, winter and summer, without attention. It is equally efficient in all climates and under all conditions."

In new homes, Mr. Spangler said, the cost of installing the aluminum Vent-A-Ridge system is little more than building without it. As with all remodeling, labor costs add to the expense when the system is incorporated into older structures. In either case, the saving in energy and repairs makes the system "extremely economical," Mr. Spangler said.

Fornesic Union To Host Evening Of Entertainment

The Murray State University Forensic Union will sponsor an evening of live entertainment when members of the speech team take the stage to give the community a taste of their quality performance.

Onlookers will enjoy selections ranging from dramatic interpretation to poetry to comedy. A highlight of the evening will be the performance by the Kentucky State Intercollegiate duo champions titled, "No Time for Sergeants."

The "Forensic Follies" will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 18, at the Clara M. Eagle Art Gallery on the MSU campus.

Stumping Toward May

This column is designed to report on the activities and positions of the candidates in the various statewide races in this May's primary election. Many of the items contained in the column come directly from the candidate or his or her staff.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Mancil J. Vinson, alumni director at Murray State University, has filed for the Democratic nomination for state Agriculture Commissioner in the May primary.

Vinson served as assistant commissioner of agriculture for 13 years before taking the Murray post in 1968. Vinson listed 10 areas of concern he will stress in his campaign. They are promotion of the tobacco industry, keeping an eye on the foreign ownership of Kentucky farm land, control of inflation, agricultural marketing and transportation, fair prices for producers and consumers, better relations among farmers and consumers, rural development, better coordination among agricultural agencies, conservation and use of land and promotion of Kentucky's livestock enterprises.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are schedules for the week of appearances for candidates in Kentucky's gubernatorial campaign. Some schedules are incomplete and some events subject to change. Schedules for other candidates appeared in Monday's edition.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Jack Smith, Democratic candidate for state attorney general, said Monday elimination of violence and narcotics use in public schools would be his top priorities. Smith, an Anchorage attorney, made the statement in a press conference at Bryan Station High School, the site of recent alleged violence and drug use.

Smith recommended establishing a statewide citizens task force of prosecutors, school administrators and teachers from all regions of the state to advise concerned parents and community officials.

"If elected, Smith said he would use the full powers of the office to give school administrators the power and authority to discipline young people who are disrupting classrooms and keeping other students from learning."

"Further, I intend for push for legislation which will keep those who commit crimes at school from coming back to the classroom after arrest. Our court system can deal effectively with those who commit crimes, but sometimes our school administrators seem too timid to act."

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Rep. Steve Beshear, D-Lexington, Monday filed his candidacy papers for the Democratic nomination for attorney general in the May primary.

One of the four people signing Beshear's papers was Jefferson County Commonwealth's Attorney David Armstrong, who had considered making the race against Beshear. Armstrong said he had known both Beshear and his opponent, Jack Smith, for several years and had met with both of them concerning the race.

"I am 100 percent enthusiastically supporting Steve," Armstrong said at a news conference prior to Beshear's filing.

Also signing the candidacy papers were former House majority leader John Swinford, now a Cynthia lawyer; Lexington attorney Tommy Bell, and Lexington businessman Thomas Preston, who served as press secretary to former Gov. Wendell Ford.

Carroll To State Choice In Race In A Few Days

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll has said he will announce who he supports for the Democratic nomination for governor "probably within a few days," and it will not be John Y. Brown Jr.

Carroll has been assumed to support former state commerce commissioner Terry McBrayer for the party's nomination. But when Brown announced his candidacy last week many people speculated that Carroll would back him because the two are friends. Carroll recently attended Brown's wedding to former Miss America Phyllis George in New York.

But Carroll told the Paducah Sun recently that when he does name his favorite, "I'll tell you one thing, I'm not going to be for John Y. Brown."

Brown has too many outside interests, and "Kentucky needs a full-time governor," Carroll said.

Final Rites Today For J. E. Cochran

Final rites for James E. (Mickey) Cochran are being held today at 2 p.m. at the chapel of the Byrn Funeral Home, Mayfield, with the Rev. Alfred Taylor officiating. Burial will follow in the Farmington Cemetery.

Mr. Cochran, 67, died Saturday at the Community Hospital, Mayfield.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Woods Cochran, Mayfield; two daughters, Mrs. Ronnie Stokes, Mayfield Route 1, and Mrs. Bob Kemp, Murray Route 7; one son, James Woods, Mayfield Route 1; three grandchildren.

J. B. Ross Dies At Hospital; Brother Ray Ross, Murray

J. B. Ross, brother of Ray Ross of Murray Route 1, died this morning at 9:55 at the Barnes Hospital, St. Louis, Mo. He was 73 years of age.

His wife, Grace, died in 1969. Born April 29, 1905, he was the son of the late Oscar Ross and Myrtle Mae Crisp Ross.

Mr. Ross is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Karl (Virginia) Runyan, one son, Jim Ross, and four grandsons—Kevin, Kelly, and Kerry Roades and Jeffrey Runyan, all of St. Louis, Mo.; one brother, Ray Ross and wife, Lochie, one niece, Mrs. James H. (Sandra) McKinney, two great nieces, Mrs. Kenneth (Sherri) Mohler and Miss Teresa McKinney, and one great nephew, Michael Mohler, all of Murray.

The funeral arrangements are now incomplete.

Mrs. Melvin Morton Dies With Funeral To Be Wednesday

Mrs. Melvin H. (Eunice E.) Morton of Hazel Route 1 died Monday at 1:45 p.m. at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital. She was 66 years of age.

The deceased was a member of the Oak Grove Baptist Church. Born Oct. 31, 1912, in Henry County, Tenn., she was the daughter of the late Irvin Grogan and Zetta Mae Andrews Grogan.

Mrs. Morton is survived by her husband, Melvin H. Morton, to whom she was married on April 27, 1929; two daughters, Mrs. Billy (Sue) Hargis, Gilbertsville, and Mrs. Charles (Nancy) Rhodes, Murray; four grandchildren—Greg, Roger, and Felicia Rhodes, and Cindy Hargis Denfip; two great grandchildren, Joseph and Jason Denfip.

Also surviving are five sisters—Mrs. Ruth Henry, Hazel Route 1, Mrs. Vye Cooper, Florida, Mrs. Ellen Prince, Paris, Tenn., Mrs. Lula White, Hazel, and Mrs. Edna Parker, Murray; four brothers—Dewey Grogan, Hazel, Stanley and Guthrie Grogan, Murray Route 4, and Gilbert Grogan, Murray.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the chapel of the Max Churchill Funeral Home with the Rev. Phil Mansfield and the Rev. H. D. Lax officiating. Mrs. Oneida White will be organist. Burial will follow in the Murray Memorial Gardens.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. today (Tuesday).

Reactor May Have To Be Junked, Experts Say

By BOB DVORCHAK
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Congressional experts warned today that the Three Mile Island nuclear reactor may be so contaminated by radiation that the entire facility may have to be junked, becoming "a $1 billion mausoleum." Federal officials said the dangerous hydrogen bubble

Kentucky's assets as a good work force, good tax base, location in the heart of the nation, waterway for transportation of goods and a major producer of energy in the form of coal, the candidate said that he would be active in recruiting good, clean industries to the state.

"What we're talking about is salesmanship," he said. "This state has probably the best opportunity for industry than any other in the nation."

Mrs. Brown, a former CBS sportscaster who used her Miss America title to launch a career in television, said that she has learned much about the state from her new husband, who she termed as "its No. 1 salesman."

"I think the designation as 'first lady' must be earned," she said. "Even though I am originally from Texas, I feel very close to the people of this state. Their Southern hospitality has been overwhelming."

The Browns purchased a farm in Lexington following their St. Patrick's Day wedding.

inside the reactor was continuing to shrink.

But they also worried that vital measuring instruments might fail because of intense radiation — making it impossible to be sure what conditions inside the reactor were.

In Washington, Sen. Gary Hart, chairman of the subcommittee on nuclear regulation, said "it might be more expensive to clean up the plant than it was to build it. It might be a $1 billion mausoleum."

Rep. Morris K. Udall, chairman of the House energy subcommittee, said the contamination inside the containment building was "unprecedented in the history of nuclear power" and was "so bad it will be months before any possible cleanup can begin, if indeed a cleanup is possible."

"Nobody's seen those fuel rods, that's the trouble," Udall said. "You can't open up the top of the reactor and look in, it's just too badly contaminated in there."

A spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission reported that measurements showed the volume of the gas bubble was still being reduced while radiation emissions that have plagued the plant since last Wednesday apparently have eased.

"We're going to check it, recheck it and check it again," NRC spokesman Jim Hanchett said of the bubble shrinkage.

Meanwhile, scientists on the scene near Harrisburg were studying the potentially explosive and lethally radioactive gas bubble and monitoring the sensitive instruments inside the reactor. "We know many of these systems may be at or beyond their design performance," said Karl Abraham, a spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Pre-school children and pregnant women were still being kept at least five miles away from the plant, an estimated 50,000 people have left the area voluntarily, and businesses reported widespread absenteeism.

Technicians toiled to dissolve the bubble's hydrogen by defusing it into the cooling water piped into the reactor. Then, in another building, it bubbled up like soda pop does when a bottle cap is opened, releasing carbon dioxide.

They also activated a "hydrogen recombiner" encased in lead bricks, which helped blend oxygen to form water, further drawing gas from the atomic powerhouse and speeding the time when the reactor could be brought to a cold shutdown.

A cold shutdown is the point at which the reactor no longer poses any risk of escaping control. Water in the reactor, some 60 degrees hotter than the boiling point, must be below boiling and the pressure relieved.

On Monday, Harold Denton, the NRC's operations chief in Harrisburg, said the hydrogen and oxygen gas bubble had shrunk "dramatically." He said signs were positive and that the bubble had shrunk to a much safer size, with less threat of displacing the reactor's cooling water.

Denton said radiation inside the top of the reactor building was measured at 30,000 roentgens an hour, a rate at which a fatal dose would be absorbed in 30 seconds.

One NRC official said radiation drifting from the disabled powerhouse had dropped to low levels on site.

Denton also said the reactor's temperature had dropped significantly, with only two fuel cells, out of 177, over 400 degrees, several hundred degrees below the point at which an explosion becomes likely.

But another NRC official, Richard Vollmer, said of the bubble, "We believe it is prudent to sit and wait a little while to make sure it's not coming back."

sophomores and 64 freshmen. Special education students also participate in the program, Dallas said.

It has no commitment to college ROTC, Dallas added.

Along with the goal of being top program in the state quality-wise, Dallas said the students are also striving to be the biggest program in the state.

In order to increase enrollment, students have done recruiting among their peers and in various eight grade classes.

"The kids have done a tremendous amount of work for the inspection and for starting this organization from scratch," Dallas said.

Truck Slams Into Rear Of School Bus

GREENTOWN, Ind. (AP) — A semitrailer truck loaded with steel slammed into the rear of a school bus carrying more than 40 pupils near here today, injuring at least 16 students and the two drivers, authorities said.

Both the bus and truck overturned.

One student was listed in critical but stable condition at Howard County Hospital in Kokomo, said Mary Erickson, the day supervisor. Another student was admitted to the hospital and was in satisfactory condition.

Most of the other injuries were believed to be fractures and cuts from flying glass, authorities said.

State police Sgt. Richard Jones said 40 to 50 students were on the bus, from the Eastern School Corporation in Howard County.

Corrections & Amplifications

A headline in Monday's edition incorrectly stated that five persons have been appointed to two newly created energy and utility regulatory commissions by Gov. Julian Carroll. Actually, six persons — three to each commission — were appointed by the governor.
